

GREAT GALLERIES OF THE WORLD

Twenty of the world's great art museums, gathered into one collection — from the Louvre's glass pyramid to the quiet white rooms of the High Museum. Each chapter tells the story of a building and the masterwork inside it: the Mona Lisa and Michelangelo's David, Guernica and The Night Watch, Van Gogh's sunflowers and a thirty-foot bronze spider.

Along the way: the founders who built these places, the fires and thefts that nearly emptied them, and the restorations that brought them back.

The final chapter comes home — to the artist in the author's own life, and the gallery where she took her first lessons in painting.

“Twenty museums, twenty stories — each one a place where a stranger can stand in front of a five-hundred-year-old painting and feel, for a moment, less like a stranger.”
